

Strengthen the role of the safety representatives

The safety representative is a union representative that supports the work of preventing serious workplace accidents, illnesses and diseases caused by an unsustainable working environment. They have an invaluable role as the employees' representative as they have insight into the work and workplace as well as training in work environment management.

The Alliance and the Sweden Democrats want the safety representative to be exchanged for an independent inspector, which will open up the opportunity for a nonunionized employee to take on the role. We think that this is wrong since the Swedish model is built on the idea of having two parties – the employer on one side, and the union on the other. If an independent inspector is chosen the employers themselves can pick out a candidate that represents their interests.

Food workers should not be risking their life and health at work – strengthen the role of the safety representatives!

We want

- The safety representatives to have a key role in the work making sure that there is a functioning security organization
- Systematic work environment management to be carried out at every workplace
- Food work to be executed without risking one's life and health

On the website Hela svaret we explain further what we find important.
